How can I tell if therapy is the right choice for me?

Almost everybody could benefit from therapy. Here are a few compelling arguments to think about therapy:

If you are experiencing something that you are having problems understanding or processing;
If managing your emotions is difficult for you and it's harming your life;
If you experience stress, overwhelm, or stuck;
If you wish to comprehend or alter the dynamics of your relationships;
If you want to speak with someone who is impartial and private.
